

BoSch Data

Factsheet fluidMAN

BoSch Data

BoSch Data GmbH is a certified Microsoft Dynamics partner, offering various solutions for Microsoft Dynamics Business Central. The applications range from individual modules/applications to large solution packages in the areas of soil, building materials and commodities/shipping. The development was focused on good usability for the users. New functions extend the scope of existing solutions or create new possibilities for the user.

BoSch Data – fluidMAN App

The fluidMAN App, based on Microsoft Dynamics™ Business Central®, empowers companies in the mineral oil industry to process business data efficiently using the standardized PIDX format. It helps streamline industry-specific data exchange, reduce manual effort, and create greater transparency across daily operations.

fluidMAN is designed to support demanding pricing scenarios with confidence. By taking guaranteed quantities and free quantities into account, the app enables precise and reliable price calculation, helping users respond faster and make better-informed business decisions.

With the ability to assign additional services directly to the raw product, fluidMAN gives companies a complete view of their product and service pricing structure in one solution. The result is improved data consistency, clearer cost transparency, and more efficient processes throughout the mineral oil business.